

THE TRUE STORY OF CANDY CORN

Have you ever wondered where candy corn comes from? Well some _____ (adjective) people think it is made with sugar and _____ (noun), but that is only because they have never heard the true story about candy corn.

On a/an _____ (adjective) farm in a/an _____ (adjective) land, there are farmers with _____ (adjective) _____ (noun) that grow the sweet candy _____ (noun) plants.

On a cool day in early _____ (time of year), when the soil is soft and _____ (adjective), under the light of a/an _____ (adjective) moon the farmer _____ (verb ending in s)

the candy corn seeds. That is how it all begins! When the seeds first _____ (verb), the candy corn plants are very small about the size of a/an _____ (possessive noun) ear, but soon the plants grow taller and taller until they are as tall as A/an _____ (noun).

As the plant grows it must be protected from _____ (plural noun) who might eat it, so most farmers use a _____ (noun) to keep the would-be thieves away.

When the _____ (noun) corn is ready to be _____ (verb ending in ed), the farmers and their families _____ (verb) each orange, yellow and _____ (color) kernel individually, carefully placing them into a _____ (noun), where they are _____ (verb ending in ed) to happy candy corn lovers around the world.

So the next time you eat candy corn, remember the _____ (adjective) farmer who _____ (verb) them!